The three glass vessels shown in Figure 19 are examples of the marbled patterns created using the process described in the text. The patterns are created by mixing different colored liquids and allowing them to settle and form distinct layers. The vessels are made of clear glass and have a frosted upper half. The marbled patterns are visible in the lower half of each vessel. The patterns are created by mixing different colored liquids and allowing them to settle and form distinct layers.
