

A white ceramic jar with its lid open, showing a smooth, minimalist design. The jar is cylindrical with a slightly flared rim. The lid is a flat, circular disc that fits snugly on top. The entire piece is made of a uniform white material, likely ceramic or porcelain, with a matte finish. It is set against a plain, light gray background, which emphasizes its clean lines and simple form. The lighting is soft and even, highlighting the subtle textures and the clean, unadorned surface of the jar and lid.
