

7.36"

The diagram illustrates a 128-bit block cipher structure. It shows a 128-bit input block being split into two 64-bit halves. The first half is processed by a function F , and the second half is processed by a function G . The outputs are then swapped and combined to produce the final 128-bit output block.

